

Dr. Gershaw Appeals For Sugar Factories

Says this District Suited For Growing Beets

An appeal to the government not to let the need for more sugar beet factories be allowed to go into the limbo of forgotten things, was made by Dr. F. W. Gershaw, speaking on the address from the throne Thursday. The Medicine Hat member declared that many thousands of men and women had been anxiously waiting for some action to be taken, following the unanimous report passed by the house last year.

Nothing Done Yet
"Something has been done," he asserted. "I am hoping that some action will be taken to assure the people in the Medicine Hat district that a sugar beet factory will be built. This factory could be operated on a low cost basis because of the low price of natural gas for fuel. There is the necessary sunshine, fertile soil and dependable supply of water to insure a high sugar content in the beets."

The Calgary live stock sale will be held on Nov. 2nd to 4th.

New from St. Ambrose

The first whist drive and social evening held in St. Ambrose Parish Hall on Monday evening was a great success. While there were not so many present as had been hoped for, those who did attend had a most enjoyable evening, and many expressed their intention of attending these functions every week.

The prizes for whist were won as follows: Ladies first, Mrs. Bainbridge; Gents first, Mrs. Podesta; Ladies consolation, Mrs. Cann; and Gents consolation, Mr. H. Bardell.

Sett Monday a new experiment will be tried when there will be tables for bridge as well as whist, and prizes will be offered for both games. Incidentally the music was very good and those who joined in the dance after the whist drive had a thoroughly enjoyable time. Don't forget that there is a special hard time price of admission of only twenty five cents including lunch and everything.

Passing of Brother of Wm. Henderson

Highly Esteemed Pastor Passes At Windhorst

We reprint the following account of the death of Rev. A. Henderson, D.D., taken from the Windhorst Independent:

In the death of Rev. Andrew Henderson, D.D., who died at Windhorst on Oct. 13th, the United Church in Saskatchewan loses one of its best known and most highly esteemed Pastors one who has given many years of faithful and efficient service in the cause of the church.

Dr. Henderson who would have been 91 years old on November 11, was born in Ontario, educated in Toronto and spent to early years of his ministry in his native province. Coming to Saskatchewan he was, in addition to his local duties in the various fields in which he labored, very active in Presbytery and Synod, holding many offices all of which he filled with ability and satisfaction.

He was a man of great natural ability, highly educated, and a pleasing and eloquent speaker. His whole interest was in the church and he worked unceasingly for its advancement, becoming one of the best known figures in the United Church circles in Sask.

His labors were officially recognized when he was granted the degree of Doctor of Divinity by St. Andrews College at Saskatoon.

Dr. E. H. Oliver, returning Moderator of the United Church of Canada was a very intimate friend of Dr. Henderson's.

While he always enjoyed exceptional health increasing age finally compelled him to give up active service and seven years ago Dr. Henderson came to Windhorst, where he made his home with Mr. and Mrs. John Smith at whose home he died, after three days illness, retaining all his faculties till the end.

The funeral was held from the United Church at Windhorst on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 14th and was conducted by Rev. G. G. Heffelfinger of Grenfell, Rev. Comings of Summerbury and Rev. Bitem of Kipling. The numbers attendance and the beautiful floral tributes, bore tribute to the esteem in which the Doctor was held. The only surviving relative is a brother William living in Redcliff, Alta. who will be 95 years of age on Jan. 13th next.

Tourist Fares Slash Cruise Rates

Transportation was sold like merchandise, a recent announcement by the Canadian Pacific Steamships would have read something like this: "The Holy Land, Egypt, and the glory that was Greece for less than $4.00 a day!"

The latest thing in cruise fares is more modest fashions. The latest thing in cruise fares is the inclusion of Tourist Class on the Mediterranean Cruise by the Empress of Australia; and for a minimum of $300 a 42-day cruise that calls at 35 ports is now available.

Peleton, the Nile, Cairo and the Pyramids, Rhodes — site of the famous Colossus — Barcelona, Casablanca, Gibraltar and Puntarenas, Madeira, where Mrs. Christopher Columbus was born, are high signs of the cruise which leaves New York January 1st.

Tourist accommodations in the magnificent 22,000-ton Empress of Australia is famous for its comfort as thousands of students, teachers, and professors who have crossed the Atlantic in the speedy vessel know. Divided by the 63 days of the cruise, which allows a stopover in England and return to the United States by any Canadian Pacific liner — even the Blue Ribband holding Empress of Britain — works out at a daily cost of a little less than $4.00.

It is believed that the new rate will introduce the joys of winter cruising in many southern jurisdictions to many who have not been able to enjoy such a holiday before.

A Mark Of Distinction

Ability To Keep Mouth Open and Mouth Shut

A man seeking a job advertises in this way in a New York newspaper: "I have just enough brains to keep my mouth shut, my ears open and present a good executive appearance. Do you need a front? Or your business?"

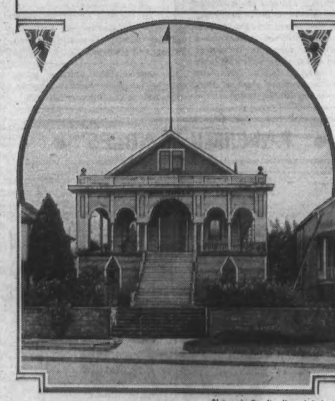

We suspect the gentleman is not being quite frank with his public. Probably he is a very shrewd, capable person who thinks an air of humility, of self-deprecation, an original line of approach, may achieve the results likely to be denied a more orthodox recital of his good qualities. The fact is, of course, that ability to keep the mouth shut and the ears open is a mark of considerable distinction and a virtue commonly desired to a great many persons. The "triumph" of "good executive appearance" and nothing to back it up is much more apt to keep his mouth open and his ears shut. If he knows enough to reverse the process he is more than just a "front"—Ottawa Journal.

Treasures Of Harwood House

Henry Lascelles, Original Owner, Was West Indian Millionaire

Harwood House, near Leeds, England, where the King and Queen spent a week-end in August, with the Prince Royal and Lord Harwood, was built about 150 years ago at a cost of £120,000. It took 13 years to erect. The State apartments command a magnificent view of beautiful Wharfedale, and contain some wonderful ceilings, plaques and paintings, as well as some of the finest specimens of Chippendale furniture in the world. Henry Lascelles, the son of the Harwood family, was a West Indian millionaire, and in Harwood House there are nearly 80 massive mahogany doors made from wood grown on the West Indian estates.

Ceremony Postponed On Account Of Crowds

Final Steps Of Canadian Memorial At Vimy Not Laid

Hanging from the end of a great cross a nine-ton stone is poised over the summit of Canada's memorial at Vimy Ridge while mayors of neighboring towns and other notables are wondering why the ceremony of completion was interrupted.

At the last moment, Brig.-Gen. H. T. Hughes, after conferring with the builders, decided the stone should not be laid. Apologies were tendered to the French guests, who accepted them with graceful gestures and puzzled glances at "the last stone" still hanging far above them. It was explained "afterwards" that employees of the Canadian authorities had circled news of the memorial's completion with misplaced zeal, causing a party of eminent visitors to attend. Brig.-Gen. Hughes, whose home is in Victoria, B.C., directed the construction work and intended the ceremony of completion to be private.

Actual completion of the memorial is not expected until the latter part of 1934, as sculptured figures of heroic size are yet to be carved on the higher levels. The topmost figure will be 80 feet above the main platform. The figure on the lower level, representing the spirit of Canada, is already finished.

towering 125 feet above the ridge and containing 6,000 tons of flawless stone, the structure commemorates Canadian valor at Vimy. It has been under construction since 1923.

British Ship Married

Kaye Don Disclosed Fate Before Selling For Home

Kaye Don, the 40-year-old dapper British king ship, disclosed the fact that he was a bridegroom as he sailed for home with his bride—21-year-old Ellen Martin, daughter of the wealthy and socially prominent Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Martin, of Greenwich, Conn.

She had some "business affairs" to wind up, he explained, but would not to join him in England, and then they will go to Italy for a honeymoon.

Don said the ceremony was performed in Greenwich, but would give no other details.

He and his bride met in New York a year ago, when he first made his unsuccessful attempt to take the Harwood speedboat trophy from Gar Wood.

Later Miss Martin went to school in Germany and they continued their courtship in Europe. Don said the wedding was all arranged when he arrived for the races this year.

Veteran Doctor Honored

Kansas People Pay Tribute To Traditions He Represented

When nearly one thousand persons assembled at Mulvane, Kansas, recently to honor the veteran physician who had ushered them into the world, they paid tribute not only to an individual but also to the traditions he represented.

The old-fashioned country physician was one of the heroes of his profession. Scientific names now dignify the shrewd psychology he administered along with his pills and powders. Under conditions that would be considered impossible today, he performed many feats of surgery. No mud was too deep and no blizzard was too blinding to keep him from answering a call to duty. The midnight beat of hoofs along the pile usually meant that he had sacrificed another night's rest in order to relieve some one's suffering.

For the old-time country doctor is passing. As with the circuit rider and the colporteur, his type will eventually become extinct. But the recent assemblage in Kansas shows that modern medicine can well afford to honor the traditions of courage and duty that thousands of country doctors left behind them.—New York Evening Post.

Education Investment

Money Spent In This Way Is Never Wasted

The nation should spend not less money, but more, on education. An elementary school child costs the public $85 a year; a secondary school about $100. Who so foolish as to regard these moderate sums as excessive, or too burdensome for the nation to carry? Every penny spent on education is an investment which brings a hundredfold return. There is no asset comparable to a generation sound in mind, healthy in body, and adequately equipped to fight the battles of life.—London Daily Herald.

DEFINITE HELP FOR DWELLERS IN APARTMENTS

Olderless way found to cook fish, cauliflower and cabbage

CANAFAR IS A PRODUCT OF HAMILTON FIRM

Lives there a woman, in apartment, duplex or home, who has not at some time or other suffered from fish, fish, fish, and cauliflower because of the odors they give off when cooking? Or who has not suffered from other people doing so? Who cooked those foods regardless?

Canafar entirely does away with this annoyance. More than that, it actually improves flavor and food value. Cooking in Canafar parallels the famous French method of steaming and caulding food and its flavors to the closed casserole.

Canafar comes in large sheets, in a handy-size package. When boiling vegetables you simply wet the sheet of Canafar and make a bag similar to a pudding bag. If you are steaming them you line your steamer with Canafar, arrange food and seasoning, and fold back corners of the Canafar to prevent steam from dripping back.

Baked or steamed fish is particularly delicious done this way. No odor in the kitchen, no gummy taste to clean. When you are done, simply wash Canafar. It prevents the fish and juices from being eliminated scouring of the pan afterwards.

Canafar saves fuel. You can cook three vegetables simultaneously. It is so handy and does not spread dirt. This is particularly handy for the busy mother who has a lot of Canafar while waiting the food doing the cooking. Canafar is made by the makers of PAK-SANT the famous heavy weight of the Green Box.

Special Offer: Most grocers, druggists and department stores sell Canafar. If you don't see it, ask the coupon dealer and we'll give you a Canafar sample. Write for a Canafar containing one hundred recipes as a bonus for your trouble.

Altitude Records

Two British Pilots Make Claims To New High Records

British pilots, flying at opposite ends of the Empire, have advanced claims to two new aviation altitude records.

Captain Cyril Uwins claimed a new record for land planes, with a flight to 45,000 feet at Bristol. The official record is 43,154 feet, held by Lieutenant Apollo Coucou; United States navy.

Major John G. Alcock, an aviator attached to the British navy's pilot, "Albatross," was reported as claiming a new altitude record for that type of ship, with a flight to 23,000 feet.

It was also claimed that a balloon released from the "Albatross" (without passengers) reached a height of 70,000 feet, or more than 13 miles. This was set up as a record. There are no official records for passenger balloons. Professor Auguste Piccard rose nearly 11 miles over Italy in his latest stratospheric ascension.

Big Fur Shipment

Furs To Value Of Half A Million Arrive From H.B. Region

A ton and a half of fur from the northern barren lands, principally from along the west coast of Hudson Bay, passed through The Pax, Man., recently, on the way to the markets of the world. The shipment is valued at roughly half a million dollars. The fur-fox, mink, martin—was caught during the past year by Eskimo, Indian, and white trappers in the sub-Arctic wastes. Only the richest and most choice fur was brought down.

From Chesterfield Inlet and other points it was flown to Churchill by the three Junkers "planes" of the Canadian Airways, and then landed on the famous musketry train that plies between the northern port and The Pax, Manitoba.

The fur will go by Canadian National Railways to the Revillon Furs Company in Canada and the Hudson Bay Company in London, England.

Office Chair Was Once Owned By Thomas Edison

A large old-fashioned chair owned by Thomas A. Edison, in the early days of the Edison General Electric Company, has been presented to the Schenectady Historical Society by the General Electric Company. It has witnessed in a sense the whole growth of the electrical industry in Schenectady. Anne Underwood, production manager of the turbine department at the Schenectady works, fell heir to it on the retirement of Langdon Gibson, former production manager of the Schenectady works. Gibson obtained the chair early in his career with the company and carried it with him from office to office.

Earthworms In Australia Attain Length Of Ten Feet

An earthworm, native to southeastern Australia, attains extreme lengths of ten or twelve feet and diameters of three-fourths of an inch, although the average specimen is only three or four feet long. It belongs to the same species as our common earthworms. The progress of these gigantic worms through the soil is attended by gurgling and sucking sounds clearly audible to persons walking on the surface. Their eggs resemble large white beads. Related species which attain a length of several feet are found in parts of South America, Java and other sections of the world.

A Gratifying Comeback

Conditions in Saskatchewan, Outfitted by Winnipeg Tribune, 90 per cent. comeback in one short year and the big crop again from the province represent substantial buying power this year, says W. L. MacTavish, editor of the Winnipeg Tribune, who has made a survey of conditions.

The Tribune article, from Regina, reads in part:

"Last year the government had to find $15,000,000 for relief. This year $1,000,000 will be ample.

"This spring 8,000,000 acres were seeded with wheat supplied by the government. Next spring requirements will not exceed 100,000 bushels.

"Last year 58,000 families required relief. This year there will be 9,000 families.

"Ninety per cent. of the farmers of the province will be able this year to pay current year's taxes, repay the government for seed, underwrite and under repair, pay all expenses of the year's work, and have enough money left to live until after harvest and do next spring's seeding without assistance.

"Three-eighths of the province yielded 30 bushels to the acre or over; one-fourth 10 to 15 bushels; one-fourth 10 to 14 bushels; and only one-eighth averaged less than 10 bushels.

"Saskatchewan government will balance its budget this year. Rural municipalities will be able to operate in normal fashion. There are no unemployed in Saskatchewan, cities, they are in harvest, doing together with many hundreds of transients."

Most Northerly Oil Producer in World

Fort Norman Well Is Supplying Fuel For Boats

Fort Norman oil well, believed to be the farthest north producer in the world, is turning out 200 gallons daily of excellent quality refined gasoline. It is the only source of fuel for the gasoline and fuel oil in connection with the operation of boats to Great Bear Lake and the operation of machinery at the mineral field.

Ray McPhie, of Edmonton, who went north by the water route to Great Bear Lake, was the first customer at the well.

The oil is being obtained from Imperial Oil Well No. 1, situated about 60 miles downstream from Fort Norman. It was drilled in 1920 and has been practically inactive since, except for a small amount of experimental information. It was drilled for geological information, after Discovery Well No. 1 was drilled 100 feet near the river and had been brought in as a producer. No. 1 for years has had a certain amount of overflow, causing an oil slick along the river for many miles downstream.

No. 2 well was reopened on June 30 by R. W. McMillan, of the Imperial Oil, and his assistant, J. Rowan, and since has been a hive of activity.

Questionable Economy

Letting Equipment Run Down Because Finances Are Scarce

Season a day passes during which a gruesome tragedy of some description is recorded. Disasters such as a ferry boat explosion, which occurred in New York some weeks ago, causes one to wonder if many of these fatal incidents are not due to the use of old equipment that is not even kept in proper repair. Explosions of all kinds have occurred throughout the continent which indicate that because finances are scarce equipment has been allowed to deteriorate to a dangerous degree. When the cost of making repairs and not infrequently the settling of damage suits is considered it is doubtful if it pays to neglect necessary repairs.

MINESWEEPER AND SUBMARINE COLLIDE DURING EXERCISES

British naval exercises near Portland Bill, England, were abruptly terminated when a collision occurred between the minesweeper, "Dundalk," and the submarine "H18" in a fog. There were no casualties although the submarine was holed above the water-line. Above is a picture of the submarine, one of the most highly efficient classes in the navy. Although it is one of the smallest types left in the British navy, the "H18" submarines are capable of crossing the Atlantic Ocean under their own power. Inset is a picture of the "Dundalk."

Judge Kept His Word

Sainted Mr. Baldwin As Liberated Island Home

An incident in connection with the departure of the Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Mr. Baldwin, and the other United Kingdom delegates to the Imperial Conference, on the "Empress of Britain," will remain as an interesting souvenir to Judge Cumille Pouliot and the members of his family on the Island of Orleans.

Five years ago when Mr. Baldwin came to Canada as Prime Minister he was presented by Judge Pouliot with an English edition of his book on the Island of Orleans. On his return, Judge Pouliot sent Mr. Baldwin a French edition of his book, as an appreciation of the request of Mr. Baldwin at the Imperial Conference, banquet that "O Canada," he sang, and invited Mr. Baldwin to visit him at the Manor Maivide-Genev, on the Island of Orleans.

"If we cannot have the pleasure of your visit, we shall value you as the 'Empress of Britain' passes our home on the island," wrote Judge Pouliot. Accordingly, as the liner was passing the point on the island where lies the Manor Maivide-Genev, at St. Jean, watchers on the bridge and deck of the "Empress" saw the English and French flags, floating at their mastsheads dipped three times. At the request of Mr. Baldwin, the "Empress of Britain" responded with three blasts from her siren.

Tomato Was Originally Ornamental Plant

Not Recognized As Nutritious Fruit Until Nineteenth Century

With the tomato so widely used and enjoying such universal popularity as it does today, it seems hard to realize that for nearly two centuries it was used only as an ornamental garden plant. The tobacco plant, the tomato is a native of the Western Hemisphere, its original habitat probably having been Peru. The natives of Mexico called it tomatillo and its first appearance in North America records about 1871. It was not until well in the nineteenth century that the tomato, one of the most nutritious of fruits, came into popular favor on this continent.—Dominion Fruit Branch.

Sweet Clover For Silage

Better To Get Crop In Quickly After Cutting

The most suitable stage at which to cut sweet clover for ensilage is when the majority of plants are in full bloom," writes E. S. Hopkins, Dominion Field Husbandman, in his annual report for 1931. He also observes "It is feasible to haul the crop to the silo immediately after cutting or within two or three hours, while the addition of water to sweet clover silage is not to be recommended. As is the case with oats-potatoes ensilage, sweet clover held in storage from three to nine months should not appear to sustain any damage or loss any of its palatability.

Britain Still Farms

It may amaze some people to learn that the value of the output sold off the farms of the United Kingdom exceeds that of agricultural production in either Canada or Australia. For the average predepression year, it is estimated by a writer in the London Times at $300,000,000, as against $275,000,000 in the dominions mentioned.

Piano May Come Back

Once Popular Instrument Has Made New Friends After Over Battle

In the plan, the source of so much household enjoyment before the appearance of the photograph and the radio, in process of staging a comeback? Some observers say that it is and that people who disposed of their places for a mere song a few years ago are now returning to purchase of these instruments.

At first when the piano began to go out of the home and radios to come in instead, the musicians looked exceedingly dubious. Here was further music listening, often simply heard being substituted for the active joys of music-making with the continual challenge to reacquaintance, its endless discoveries and handiwork triumphs. This passivity was worse than it had been with the gramophones, they argued.

But the musicians, fearful of their own fate, if left alone he would come round in a few hours. But too often when he is so drunk as to be helpless, a third party takes him. "Wages are even more dangerous when under the influence of an intoxicant. Over-night Victoria plunk, when as they lie on the ground, makes drunk man. When moderately drunk they go mad, and get busy with their stings when thoroughly intoxicated they go to sleep.

"Bees have not enough jaws to hew through the side of a plum, but they sometimes seize the opportunity of a cracked plum to get drunk."

British Camera Face Crisis

Frail Supply Forces It Has Been In Years

What can a camera do when there is nothing left to can? That is the crisis which the British camera industry faces in a year when it hoped to reach its apex. There is no fruit to can. The shortage is so great that camera factories are running on half time.

The reason is two-fold. The fruit supply has been the poorest in years, and the tariff is so high that foreign fruits are being kept out and the demand for English fresh fruit has increased.

Part of the wall of the 200-year-old "cage" at Camberwell, England, believed to have been used by Dick Turpin, has collapsed.

Daily Service From Churchill Possible

Professor MacEwen Predicts Great Development Of Northern Port

Frederick MacEwen, of Saskatchewan, and Alberta grass fed cattle passing through Churchill to the British markets, with daily shipments of Saskatchewan's wheat to the world's markets during the navigation season was a word picture of possible development of the northern port portrayed by Prof. J. G. W. MacEwen, of the animal husbandry department of the University of Saskatchewan, at a service ship meeting in Saskatoon.

Professor MacEwen is the first Canadian to enter Canada through the port of Churchill, arriving there in the "Stikewitch," the second of the English line ships to arrive this season.

He also predicted that within a short time there would be a boat leaving each day instead of the eight or 10 ships laden with grain for the world's markets that now leave Churchill. This is the present limit of the loading capacity, he said.

After Forty Years

League For Human Rights Commemorate Nelson's Victory

Nearly 40 years after the famous case which brought his name before the world, Lieutenant-Colonel Alfred Dreyfus, now living in peaceful retirement at the age of 73, is to be honored. Generally considered the victim of miscarriages of justice, he was found guilty of selling French military secrets to Germany, and sentenced to life imprisonment on Devil's Isle. Dreyfus is pleased to hear that the League For Human Rights is to place a slab to commemorate the spot at Fort Halden where he stepped ashore on his last exile.

It was on this spot that Dreyfus was a young officer when he was accused in 1894. The sentence was followed by a reversal of public opinion and such men as the late Georges Clemenceau and Emile Zola found him his defense.

A new trial of 1899 found him guilty, with extremely lenient sentences. He was pardoned in 1906, and the court of appeals later reversed the original conviction.

The Other Man's Job

Often Involves More Worry Than Appears On Surface

There is one man in the world to day who has our profound sympathy and that is President McCormack. We do not know whether he is a good president or not, whether his acceptance speech was what his friends and what his enemies said it was. We know that he would not take his job for a thousand dollars a minute, with the highest salary in the world. In being a President, like some other jobs, may look easy and attractive at a distance but it is anything but that. It is an inclined plane, and the other man his position a few enquiries as to what was involved in it, might help to cure you.—The New Outlook, Toronto.

Warning For Post Trappers

"It is as bad to beat time with your feet as trying to write with your tongue as well as your fingers."

So declared Dr. Adrian Boult, music director of the British Government Broadcasting Service, in an address at Oxford recently. "It is bad psychologically, and you will probably go mad if you go on writing because it means your limbs are not under control and energy is wasted."

Movies Had No Attraction

After struggling for a year to keep going the only theatre in Churchill has folded up like an accordion. More than 500 men camped there on construction failed to thrill at movie stars. Silent pictures were a flop. Amateur nights didn't draw a crowd, either. Tackles failed miserably.

The Earth's Age Interests Scientists

But Problem Is Still Far From Being Solved

It would be within the scope of scientific statement to say that the number of all things living in the world is great. It may seem a little discouraging, therefore, to inquire too closely into the age of the spinning globe which has numbered every generation of life since the beginning, but such calculations and speculations are of personal interest to scientists.

A new attack is to be made on the problem by studies in Finland, where the Carnegie Institution of Washington is working with the Geological Commission of Finland to measure the radioactivity of pre-Cambrian rock formations. Of all the rocks in the world, those of Finland are chosen because their geological age can be easily estimated, and the success of all future calculations will rest on the rate of cooling of the earth's interior. Discovery of the fact that nearly all surface rocks contain minute quantities of radioactive elements has seriously upset the figures based on the measurable cooling of the earth. It is known that some of the heat which survives from this radiance of the rocks and not from the hot core of the earth. The earth's surface, which is covered by new lava, is much greater than the estimate of 27,000,000 years which attached Lord Kelvin, one of the first scientists to make serious efforts to solve the problem.

Measurement of the loss of heat by radioactivity in Finland's oldest rock formations is intended to correct still further the Kelvin calculations. This may bring them much closer to estimate based on other evidence, and that some day science may be able to establish the birthday of Mother Earth within a few millions of years or so.—The New Evening Post.

Rare Old Testament Has Been Reproduced

Original Manuscript Was Made In Thirteenth Century

A reproduction of a rare illuminated 13th century manuscript of the New Testament, which survives the fall of Constantinople to the Turks and was discovered 700 years later in a Paris attic, being, was released by University of Chicago on September 14, constituting one of the last contributions of culture by the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick.

The original manuscript was purchased in 1827 by Mrs. McCormick after its discovery in the Paris shop of Dr. Ediger. Goodman, professor of New Testament history.

Mrs. McCormick retained Mac Jaffe of the University of Chicago to reproduce the manuscript and intricate illustrations illuminating the ancient manuscript and authorized, at her own expense, its reproduction in a limited edition as a source for scholars under the title "The Edith Rockefeller McCormick New Testament."

Professor Goodman said the manuscript was made in the 13th century in the scriptorium of the palace of Michael Paleologus, one of the last emperors to rule over the glories of Byzantium, and that it is known technically as "Codex 2400."

Trend Now Upward

It seems to be the general consensus of opinion that the proper foundation for a new recovery has been reached. That means that on the trend is bound to be upward. When it is realized in the mercantile world and with the general public that there is no possibility of lower prices for commodities or necessities of any kind, no incentive to greater buying is inevitable.

The breed of Jersey cattle on the American islands have kept pure and apart for 500 years.

Movement For A
Nordic FederationNationalist Group in Germany Has Set Movement in Motion

In these days when such a feeling of internationalism is abroad, it is world it is interesting to find a group of undercurrents in quite the other direction. For instance there has been set in motion a movement emanating from the Nationalist group in Germany, to bind all the Nordic nations together. The aim of the people sponsoring this idea is to organize the citizens of Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Belgium and Holland to combat the growing domination of Europe by Latin and Slav nations. The Anglo-Saxons are also to be considered in this new lineup, although to date Great Britain has not given an active demonstration of its interests, as have the other countries. All it does show is that pride of race is still a dominant factor in shaping the destinies of the world. Which is, perhaps, as it should be. Life is conflict and the race unprepared to make a stand for its existence is a doomed race.

New Altitude Record

British Aviator Climbs To Height Of 45,000 Feet

After reaching a height of 45,000 feet, Capt. George Cyril Uwins, well known aviator and member of the Royal Air Force during the war, today holds a new altitude record for aeroplanes.

In a flight over the western Valley Capt. Uwins beat the previous record of 35,000 feet.

Capt. Uwins, flying a 500-horsepower Pegasus Bristol engine, left the Bristol aerodrome and climbed steadily for more than two hours. The cold became so intense he was forced to use a special oxygen pumping apparatus and electrically heated goggles, gloves and clothing. He eventually descended at 11,000 feet.

The record is subject to ratification by the Royal Aero Club.

Hard On the Men

Households Of Quebec Handicapped

Workers Forced To Earn Living Holidaysman returning from visits to some of the smaller French villages "en bas de Quebec," bring back tales of changed times there. Since handiwork markets have slumped, it is no longer the case that the womenfolk make so much money from their spinning and weaving their husbands could live it easy; "mused one old sexton as he paused from his labors around the parish church to chat with some tourists. But now? Well, the men have to sell up their livestock and go to work. It's not like the old days. The women earned big money then. They worked hard, making homespun blankets, and hooked rugs, and sold them as fast as they made them. Now the tourists don't spend as much money. So the husbands must go to work."

Some of the women in these districts, tourists say, have been to normal school and cities are the only educated people in the place. In one village it is the banker's daughter who goes to the city to get a new dress, while a woman down town or some business tangle full of technicalities straightened out. Further on, back in the hills, the daughter of a merchant keep the paternal accounts and works in the bank of which her father is the cashier. Having business to transact a summer visitor sought her at her father's store. She was out—showing a gang of men how to build a barn.

Comic Ray Is Electron

Report Of Chicago Professor Upsets
Theory Of Dr. Millikan

"The eclipse has no effect upon the comic ray and my work on the Arceus have been shown, the comic ray is an electron, and a wave, as Dr. Robert Millikan believes," Dr. Arthur H. Compton, youthful professor of physics at the University of Chicago, stated on his return to The Pias after a trip inside the Arctic Circle.

Dr. Compton and his colleagues, his manner scientific experiments had produced evidence which would probably have an important bearing on the comic ray.

Outlining his electron theory, he declared there was a difference of about 20 per cent. in the strength of the ray at the equator and at the north magnetic pole. "Obviously if the comic ray were an electron, it is a north magnetic pole has any effect on the rays they must be electrical in nature instead of a wave, as Dr. Millikan contends. The difference shown by my experiments will be a severe blow to Dr. Millikan. It is probable his flights from Marchfield, California and Comstock Lake, Man., into the upper atmosphere will confirm my work."

Former President Of Good Roads
Association Ends Honorary Post

Hon. Leopold Macnamara, Ontario Minister of Highways, is the new president of the Canadian Good Roads Association, which closed its annual convention with a banquet at Digby, Nova Scotia.

He succeeds Hon. A. C. Stewart, Saskatchewan Minister of Highways, who was elected honorary president. In his presidential address, Hon. A. C. Stewart, Minister of Highways for Saskatchewan, said that despite adverse factors progress was still being recorded. Highway development in Canada had complemented and amplified transportation in general, had assisted productive labor, minimized delay, and added to the health, wealth and prosperity of the country.

The finances of the association, said Mr. Stewart, were in a satisfactory condition, and a substantial reserve built up in the prospect year would provide for any adverse contingencies.

Some White Elephants

Everything From Yachts To Railroads
Offered For Sale

The dilemma of the yacht owner who does himself financially unable to put his craft into commission, and at the same time fails to locate a friend willing to assume the burden of maintenance in return for the joy of use, may cause no less embarrassment than came to the confined bachelor who was "given" a 13-room model house recently as the result of a ticket selling campaign. A similar case is that of a gentleman in Denver who bought a South American warship some years ago because he thought it would be fun to own one. As a toy for idle hours, a 10-gun cruiser might very well prove the fulfillment of boyhood dreams were it not, as the Denver enthusiast now confesses, for costly to keep and impossible to give away.

The Denver & Rio Grande Railroad comes forward with a similar problem. It has a 38-mile branch line extending from Lake City to Baguerio, Colo., that it will give with the right to anyone who will pay taxes and operate it. Or it will rent the line, complete with locomotive and one coach for $480 a year.

Surely those offers are reasonable offers. A private railroad running through the scenic heart of the Rockies (we mean the Rockies, not the Rockies in the heart of the Rockies) is not given away every day. And the opportunity to be engineer, brakeman and conductor at the same time, to say nothing of station agent, signaller and train dispatcher, ought to be worth $480 a year to somebody with a small boy at home—Detroit Free Press.

White Woman Revered and Trusted
By All in District

Having held for 21 years to guide and protect the Chinese community of London from the perils and crimes to its present condition, Mrs. Mary Plank, a Worcestershire woman, long known as the "unknown" of the district, has a long record of adventures.

Through murderous knives and gun shots, she has saved the lives of many. Mrs. Plank has played her role. Today, with incredibly white face, and eyes which have taken on something of Oriental depth, still continue to be the door of her little house, some Chinese, Laocars, Germans, Russians, and other strange folk, of the Seven Seas, may Plank never fails them.

Coming to London in 12, she found a job in a Chinese laundry. It served as an introduction to the Oriental mentality, which later was to play much a large part in her life. Eventually, married, she settled in Limehouse, opening a boarding house for sailors, and has not left the place since.

In those early days, Limehouse was a hive of opium smoking, gambling, white slave trading and open vice. Mrs. Plank developed a strange facility for handling the Orientals and subsequently became known as a woman to be trusted.

Narrow Escape

How Garibaldi Leded Capture By His Enemies

The story of Garibaldi's narrow escape from capture during his stay in the little capanna in the Ravenna marshes may interest some of your readers. I have not seen it in print. It was told me some years ago by an old woman to whom I was introduced at Ravenna. While Garibaldi was in hiding, never came that soldiers were on their way to search every corner of the marsh. What was to be done? It was decided to locate him in a hole dug for rubbish not far from the cottage. Bought were laid out, and children were instructed to play a sort of "Here no run the rabbit" game, jumping over the hole, singing and dancing. The race was on. Letters in the London Times, England.

LOVES WORDS

Love has few words. Each threadbare
Has rung through countless lovers' tongues.

Since Caesar sought Egyptian ways
And Jacob served in Rachel's house.

So poor are they, so old, so weak,
With foolish and unlovely things.

In vain does every lover seek
New speech to tell his longing words.

So poor? But, ah, how sweet, how rare
They fall upon the eager ear.

The words of love that still each ear
And bring the most of heaven near!

So true! So old! So low! So sweet
Their words, till treasure wastes.

And love's few words the richer grow
From all the passion of the past.

The Real Edison

Was Very Humble and Had An Engaging Personality

In a recent issue of Harper's, there appears an intimate study of Thomas Edison by one of his laboratory associates that will probably be an eye-opener to the public which knew the great inventor only by reputation. In it, especially in late chapters, he has pictured him as a somewhat mild-mannered, gentle old man, a patriotic figure commanding respect and admiration; the magazine writers of gentlemen of the press laid it on rather thick and gave us the general impression that Edison was an immortal first and a human being afterward.

His intimates, of course, knew him for what he was and it is good that the rest of us should likewise be in on the truth. For Edison was a new spirit, full of an Elizabethan gusto. How many of us had regarded him as being more or less saintly—photographs of him somehow suggested that—and how pleasant it is to discover that he was full of the most engaging humor and traits imaginable. There was a vigor and vitality about him that would have distinguished him from the general hum of mankind had he never become a famous inventor. He seems to have had his own ideas about every subject on earth and to have been in touch with a radius of expression that did the listener's heart good.

There is a tendency to give the immortals their due more on the side of achievement than on character and personality; certainly that is true in Edison's case. To read Mr. Huxford's study of him is to appreciate Edison in the role of a man in which he was quite as successful as in the field of invention—Detroit Saturday Night.

Little Helps For This Week

Prayer is a character builder. Men are influenced by their associates. If they talk with wise men they get wisdom from them, power from the strong, gentleness from the kind, and sincerity from the humble. If men associate with God in prayer God will build them. If we will spend time with Him, whether we are alone or in public places, he will work upon us and build Himself and His likeness in us.—Robert S. Soper.

Great Contribution To

Art Of Printing From Movable Type
Man's Greatest Invention

In the midst of all the discoveries and inventions, it may not be generally known that the art of printing from movable type is perhaps the greatest invention ever devised by the mind of man. It provided the facilities for the giving of knowledge to the masses. Through the medium of books, pamphlets, newspapers and other forms of literature, knowledge previously in the hands of monks spread throughout the world. To the mind of man it gave light where formerly darkness prevailed. It is almost impossible to estimate the progress that has been made in the world through this great invention.
